Legalization of weed. Mayoral candidates give their positions after CAMH issues call

The Centre for Addiction and Mental Health's (CAMH) milestone call to legalize pot has not persuaded John Tory, Toronto's mayoral frontrunner, that Canada should go quite that far.

However, "the federal government should look seriously at decriminalizing marijuana," Tory said Thursday. "It is just taking up huge amounts of our resources in court time and police time."

Indeed, CAMH estimated in a report that enforcement of cannabis laws costs Canadians $1.2 billion a year.

Tory said there should be a debate in Parliament followed, perhaps, by a free vote where everyone is allowed "to really say what they want."

While proponents argue that legalizing pot could generate extra revenue for the city, fellow candidate Doug Ford has said he supports legal marijuana only for medicinal purposes.

Asked Thursday if he would support legalization, Ford replied: "I can't say. That's up to the federal government, not up to me."

Olivia Chow, meanwhile, said her position remains the same as it was when she was in Ottawa.

"When I was a Member of Parliament I supported legalization, but it's really up to the feds," she said.

She added that she plans to review the CAMH report "very carefully."

In Ottawa, federal Liberal Leader Justin Trudeau tweeted Thursday: "Welcome call from @CAMHnews for a regulated, legal system for marijuana access, which will help keep drugs out of our kids' hands."

CAMH said there should be a government monopoly on sales, with a minimum age for purchase and consumption as well as controls on availability.

Hungarian trapped in detention

In limbo. Visiting man can't get answers from customs officials over why he's been jailed

Csaba Csizmar just wants to go home.

He's been held in immigration detention for over a month, ever since he flew to Toronto and was arrested at the airport.

But the Hungarian citizen isn't accused of committing any crimes. His immigration counsel doesn't even contest his rejection at the border. He has a ticket home and planes depart daily, but the Canada Border Services Agency (CBSA) is keeping him in custody, and he can't figure out why. He's trapped in a bureaucratic labyrinth, allowed neither to enter Canada nor to leave.

"OK, so you don't want to let him in," said Zsuzsanna Loczi, who had hoped to host Csizmar at her Scarborough apartment. "Then let him go home."

Loczi started a budding romance with Csizmar on the Internet two years ago and invited him to Canada to meet in person.

Now, she says she visits him every other day, making the two-hour journey across town to the CBSA detention centre

Quoted

"They could have turned him back at the airport and sent him home in two days."

Nagendra Selliah, paralegal

in Rexdale, where she sits at a booth and picks up a phone to chat with him on the other side of a pane of glass.

Loczi says she initially tried to post $4,000 bail for her guest, a sum that would be returned when he left the country, but her offer was rejected. Since then, she says she's been calling the CBSA, her local MP and the Hungarian Embassy, but can't figure out why Csizmar can't just get on the next plane home.

A CBSA agent rejected Csizmar's entry to Canada because he didn't believe he would leave at the end of his six-month stay, according to a printed report provided to Csizmar and seen by the Torstar News Service.

The agent questioned why Csizmar brought family photos and personal documents, but no credit cards or toiletries, and only $135 in cash, it states.

"I note the subject's eventual admission that he intends to marry Canadian reception and stay in Canada permanently,"

Csaba Csizmar, left, at his daughter's wedding in Serbia. Csizmar arrived in Toronto in early September for a vacation and was detained at Pearson airport. He remains in immigration detention. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE the agent wrote, concluding that the information Csizmar provided "render(s) him inadmissible to Canada."

At a Tim Hortons in Scarborough, Loczi and her son, Bela Safri, lay out a stack of papers they've received from the CBSA and Immigration Canada. It's been more than five weeks since Csizmar arrived, and he's spent the entire time behind bars.

He's had three detention review hearings.

On Sept. 26, the immigration board issued a removal order for Csizmar and imposed a one-year ban on entering Canada, CBSA spokesperson Vanessa Barassa said in an email.

The paralegal hired to represent Csizmar at his first detention review hearing calls the situation "bizarre."

"This guy never claimed refugee status," said Nagendra Selliah. "They could have turned him back at the airport and sent him home in two days.... Now they've kept this man in detention for five weeks. He's just sitting here, and the taxpayer is paying for it."

The CBSA says it costs an average of $251 per day to keep someone in immigration detention, meaning Csizmar's stay in Rexdale has cost about $9,287.

Ford demands Goldkind be barred from debate

Ari Goldkind TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Organizers of a community debate Friday say Doug Ford forced them to disinvite long-shot candidate Ari Goldkind by threatening to not attend.

"We were asked by the Doug Ford team to not have him there, and if he was going to be there then they would not be there," said Inner City Union debate organizer Antonius Clarke. "I think it's wrong.... Whatever Doug wants, Doug gets. So he has the power."

With Goldkind suddenly out, Ford was set to challenge

John Tory and Olivia Chow Friday night, as has been the standard with the majority of mayoral debates.

But after learning Goldkind was uninformed Thursday night, Tory now says he will boycott the event.

"I was disappointed to learn this evening that due to the strong-arm tactics of the Ford campaign, Ari Goldkind was disinvited from tomorrow's debate," Tory said in an emailed statement. "Doug Ford does not get to dictate the rules."

Goldkind accepted an invitation to participate in the debate, focused on the city's priority neighbourhoods, in September. At the time, only Chow and Tory were confirmed.

Clarke said they have been trying to get an answer from Ford's campaign for weeks. He said campaign aide Amin Masoudi called him to give the ultimatum.

Goldkind said organizers emailed him Thursday afternoon to break the news he'd been uninvited.

"If this is how Mr. Ford chooses to act when he does not have power, imagine how he would act if he had power. What a scary notion," he said.

Ford vowed not to debate Goldkind after they faced off at a Sunday debate in North York. That debate saw Goldkind criticizing Rob Ford for his anti-Semitic comments and Doug Ford making defensive comments that were largely criticized as stereotyping the Jewish community.

Sousa vows not to let MaRS off the hook

The Liberal government was aware of the risks of loaning millions to MaRS to build an office tower, Infrastructure Minister Brad Duguid says.

"There was always an element of risk to this project," Duguid said Thursday at a cabinet retreat in Scarborough.

That risk was realized in January when MaRS told the province it could no longer make payments on the $224-million loan, leaving taxpayers holding the bag to the tune of $450,000 a month in interest payments.

"The key here is that risk was underwritten by the value of the building," Duguid said.

Finance Minister Charles Sousa said he's not letting MaRS off the hook for reneging on the loan.

"I am recovering it. All of it.... I am getting it all back. That's the purpose here," Sousa told reporters.

is mostly empty with just over 30 per cent of the space leased.

On top of the outstanding loan to MaRS, the government last month bought out the U.S.-based developer, Alexandria Real Estate, bringing the total bailout to $309 million.

Duguid complained part of the reason the building is crying for tenants is the fact the company had imposed exorbitant rents.

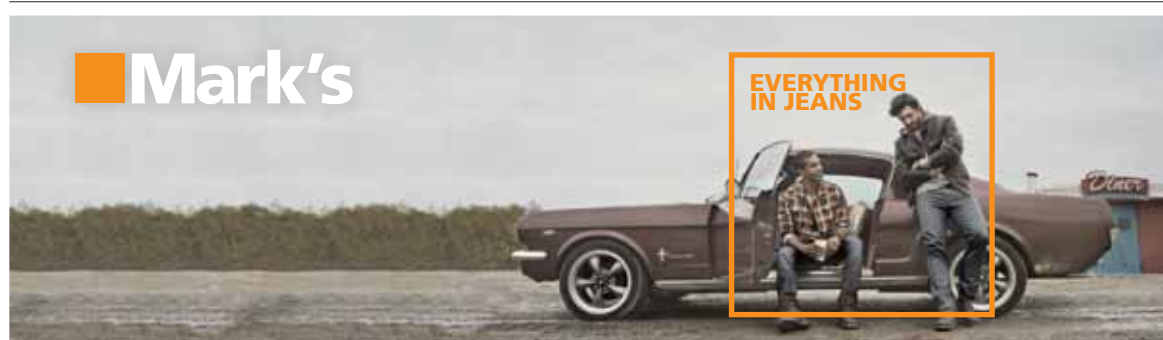

Treasury Board President Deb Matthews said the province is trying to get out of the real estate business.

Condo rents to remain flat: Research firm

Forecast for the year.

Rental activity seen as heading towards a more sustainable pace following extremely high rates of growth

A record 7,132 condo apartments were rented across the GTA in July, August and September, but demand for all those granite-and-glass units now lighting up the city's skyline appears to be easing, says condo research firm Urbanation.

While the number of condo leases signed was up 10 per cent in the third quarter over the same period a year ago, that's about half the rate of growth seen during the first half of 2014.

In fact, that's the slowest pace of growth in condo rental demand seen in the last two years, says Urbanation in a third-quarter assessment of what's typically the busiest period of the year for signing new leases.

Demand levelling out?

The slower pace of demand is also seen as a sign of what could lie ahead in this huge, and growing, sector of the rental housing market that's seen fierce competition, and even rent bidding wars, driven largely by millennials keen to live close to the core in new, towering highrises.

The slower pace of demand was blamed largely on a dip in listings from the record high of 8,961 in the second-quarter as fewer new projects registered, translating into a drop in the number of investor-owned units put up for rent.

From cop to comic superhero

Criminals beware!

Watch out for the long arm of the law

Tony Cedrone is having altogether too much fun at work these days. The other guys around the office are starting to notice.

"I come into work, and I'm whistling," he says. "And they're going, 'I hate that guy.'"

Cedrone is a cop with the gang prevention unit of York Regional Police — not an outfit well known for its gaiety.

But he has landed himself a gig that would put a smile on the most hardened law-enforcement grunt: He is making a superhero movie.

Not that the deal needs sweetening, but Cedrone is also a member of the only demographic group more prone to superhero fantasies than police officers: comic book geeks.

"I'm having a blast," he admits, before bursting into slightly guilt-ridden laughter, the kind that says, 'I can't believe I'm getting away with this.'

To be fair, the movie isn't a total lark. In fact, there's something deadly serious about the project. It's part of a PR campaign to make pre-teens find cops cool and thereby prevent them from becoming criminals.

The movie hasn't been released yet — its first public screening is Nov. 14 — but Cedrone and his colleagues have been parading the superhero around in full regalia at comic-book conventions such as Fan Expo and introducing him to kids in York Region since August.

The recent spate of youth violence in Toronto — three teenagers were shot dead on Monday in two separate incidents; a 19-year-old was allegedly stabbed to death by a 17-year-old in late September — has helped shine a light on the importance of diverting young people from crime.

Many experts say that getting at kids when they're young is the best way to keep them from becoming the kinds of teens who shoot people.

That's what Cedrone is try-

The short film — with an expected running time of about five minutes — is called United. It's about a nameless superhero who fights off scary, bad guys with the help of local civilians.

"The theme of the movie is police and community partnership," Cedrone said.

"I think we're the only police service that's ever done anything like this — or at least this ambitious," Cedrone said.

The project is the brainchild of Cedrone and his partner, Doug MacRae.

The hero's suit, which from afar looks like it was crafted by NASA, is actually cobbled together from junk bought at Walmart and Canadian Tire. "His abs are car mats," Cedrone says, laughing irrepressibly again.

A German man who was threatening one of Canada's most famous comedians in cyberspace was arrested days before the Academy Awards, thanks to a former Toronto cop.

The identity of the Toronto-area comedic icon, who lives in Hollywood and has starred in dozens of movies, is not being made public due to privacy concerns.

The threats were discovered when former Toronto cop Michael Jander was hired to monitor social media traffic for Hollywood's top stars, who were due to walk the red carpet last March outside the Dolby Theatre.

"We found out that the threats were being made by a man in Germany," Jander told more than 200 airport investigators at the third annual International Airport Investigators' Training Symposium that wrapped up Thursday in Mississauga.

Jander is the founder of Go360, a software used by law enforcement to monitor sites like Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, Flickr and many others in real time for trends or threats. It can show where a message is posted from and by whom.

"We knew who the suspect was and were alerted when he returned to the U.S.," Jander said, adding police and the star's security staff were waiting for the suspect to post again.

"He (suspect) surfaced outside the star's home and his security called police, the man was arrested," he said.

Jander, who now works for the Royal St. Christopher and Nevis Police Force, also monitors cyberspace for possible bad news against top-tier politicians, celebrities and sports stars.

"We can do all this without leaving the country," he noted. "Our software is being used by police in many parts of the world."

Jander gained a reputation after helping round up protesters who caused more than $2.1 million in damage during the G20 Summit in Toronto in 2010. Jander and seven other officers were able to track and arrest dozens of protesters, after spending hundreds of hours poring over 55,000 images and 220 hours of video.

FRESH THINKING DRIVES CONTINUOUS IMPROVEMENT

COMMISSION

In previous columns, I described the various initiatives that are in progress to renew our streetcar fleet, replace worn out track and signals and to introduce a new smartcard. These programs are well underway and are all part of our five-year plan to modernize the TTC from top to bottom.

But TTC modernization needs to be much more than shiny new vehicles and renewed assets. For the TTC to deliver on its vision of “A transit system that makes Toronto proud,” the way we do things and the prevailing culture at the TTC has to change. For that reason, our plan also addresses renewal of processes and culture.

These two elements are closely interlinked. In order to engender fresh thinking and to kick start a customer-led culture, new people have been brought in to improve the calibre of management and to bring best practice from other successful companies.

A good example of such fresh thinking has resulted in recently announced plans to change the way we schedule the subway so that we can run more trains at the busiest times. Starting on Tuesday, Oct. 14, two trains will be added to both Line 1 (Yonge-University-Spadina) and Line 2 (Bloor-Danforth) in the peak hours. When combined with a moratorium on non-essential track inspections at those times and a renewed focus on minimizing delays at terminus stations, these changes will deliver additional capacity and a better peak-hour service.

On our surface routes, additional route supervisors have been deployed to tackle bunching and gapping of buses and streetcars. At our subway stations, customers will soon be able to purchase a far greater range of tickets and tokens using debit/credit facilities than is currently the case – and all before the roll-out of our new smartcard on our new Spadina streetcars.

Some tough decisions need to be made. One reason that buses get short-turned is to fill a gap caused by the breakdown of another bus. So we are increasing the amount of maintenance that each vehicle receives, even though this temporarily reduces the number of vehicles on the road.

It all adds up to a fundamental overhaul of everything that we do, and while much remains to be delivered, I feel confident that we are laying solid foundations for sustainable improvement and for a better TTC.

TTC SERVICE CHANGES TO BEGIN AFTER THANKSGIVING

Beginning Sunday, Oct. 12, the TTC will implement several key measures to reduce delays and improve service on many routes, with special emphasis on Line 1, Line 2, the 512 St Clair streetcar and the 29 Dufferin bus. Increased service, a proactive approach to bus repairs, and newly hired Route Supervisors will keep the system running with as few delays as possible. To see if these changes affect your route, visit ttc.ca.

Lines 1 and 2: To relieve overcrowded platforms, the TTC will add two additional trains weekdays during morning and afternoon peak periods. In the downtown core, trains can be so full that customers must let two or three pass by before there is enough room to board. Additional trains will add much needed capacity, reducing wait times on platforms. To lessen train congestion at the end terminals, the

On Sunday, Oct. 12, the streetcar platform at Union Station will re-open, servicing the 509 Harbourfront and 510 Spadina streetcar routes.

TTC will begin offloading some trains closer to its yards, limiting the number of “out of service” trains that operate from end terminals to the yards after rush hour. Customers may be asked to transfer trains, but the inconvenience will result in a faster overall trip.

Union Station streetcar platform re-opens: Streetcar service will resume on Queens Quay with the completion of Waterfront Toronto-related track and overhead work.

509 Harbourfront: Streetcar service will resume between Exhibition Place and Union Station. Service will no longer be provided eastbound on Lakeshore Boulevard. Customers must board streetcars on Queens Quay West. As well, the temporary bus stop on Bay and Front will be removed. Customers must enter Union Station to access the streetcar.

510 Spadina: Streetcar service will resume on Queens Quay, operating every two to six minutes between Spadina Station and King Street, and every five to eight minutes between King Street and Union Station. The TTC’s two, new accessible streetcars will operate on the 510 Spadina route to Union Station. To track the accessible vehicles, visit www.nextbus.com. Customers must remember to carry Proof-of-Payment (POP) when boarding. Note: The elevator at Queens Quay station is currently out-of-service due to construction at a neighbouring property. As a result, customers requiring an elevator must travel to Union or Spadina stations.

511 Bathurst: A bus service will replace 511 Bathurst streetcars due to upcoming City and TTC infrastructure upgrades beginning Oct 20.

512 St Clair: The TTC will add additional route supervisors and three spare vehicles to better maintain headways and reduce short-turns, thereby improving overall service reliability.

29 Dufferin: Additional Supervisors will maintain an overview of service, dispatch vehicles at the route ends on time, use additional vehicles to fill service when needed, and schedule crew changes for breaks with minimal impact to the customer.

System-wide bus service: To improve bus reliability on all routes, the TTC will begin an aggressive maintenance program to repair old buses before they break down. By taking the oldest buses off the road for a proactive overhaul, service reliability will improve across all routes. At any time, fewer than two per cent of buses will be removed from morning and afternoon weekday service. The program is expected to last until the end of 2015.

Rebuilding. Gaza tries to assure donor countries

The new Palestinian unity government toured Gaza and held a Cabinet meeting there for the first time Thursday, aiming to assure donor countries that absolute Hamas control has ended and that it can lead the rebuilding of the war-battered territory.

The visit by the ministers came three days before an international pledging conference for Gaza, to be held in Cairo.

In establishing a foothold in Gaza, the new Cabinet, which reports to Western-backed President Mahmoud Abbas, was trying to signal that the Palestinians' paralyzing political split has come to an end. Hamas had seized Gaza from Abbas in 2007, leaving him with only parts of the West Bank. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

India-Pakistan border fight leaves villagers terrified

Crossfire. Frightened people on both sides say they are fed up with the cycle of violence

Troops trading heavy fire between Pakistan and Indian-controlled Kashmir have plunged civilians on both sides into grief with 18 villagers killed and dozens wounded this week, prompting many to question how two nations committed to a 2003 ceasefire could be targeting civilians while trading blame about who started shooting first.

Iram Shazadi was making breakfast for her family Monday when bullets started whizzing through her dusty Pakistani village of Dhamala Hakimwala — about half a kilometre from the border with the Indian-administered portion of the disputed Himalayan region.

A mortar shell fired by Indian border forces slammed into her home and killed her mother-in-law and two sons, aged five and eight.

"I lost my whole world," the injured 30-year-old said Wednesday at a military hospital in Sialkot. She sat crying next to her six-year-old son, who narrowly escaped the blast.

On the Indian side, farmer Gulshan Kumar spent Tuesday night huddled with his family at home while mortars from Pakistan fell on his village of Chilyari.

"A shell landed in our neighbour's home, killing a 70-year-old woman and her 32-year-old daughter-in-law," Kumar told reporters.

The fighting over the past four nights marks the worst violation of the 2003 ceasefire accord brokered between India and Pakistan after several years of almost-day border battles, officials on both sides say.

While minor skirmishes have been somewhat common over the years, many were shocked that this week's fighting fell over the Muslim holiday of Eid al-Adha and left civilian casualties — nine in Pakistan and nine in India. The tally includes two women killed early Thursday after fresh fighting erupted overnight, according to Press Trust of India.

Tens of thousands of villagers have fled their homes on both sides since Sunday night, when the violence first erupted along the 200-kilometre border between Pakistan's Punjab province and the Indian-controlled portion of Kashmir.

An 11-year-old boy who was stabbed on an athletic field in Newfoundland is recovering at home and talking to his mother about playing soccer again.

The president of the Conception Bay South Soccer Association says he spoke to the boy's mother on Wednesday night about her son's progress since he was stabbed on Sept. 25.

The incident happened during a routine evening skills clinic at the sports centre in the community west of St. John's. Officials have said about 60 players were on the field when a man rushed into the playing area. Nicholas Layman, 19, has been charged with attempted murder. ## Denver

Bear food thief trapped in car

A hungry black bear thought it had found an easy meal inside an unlocked car in suburban Denver. But after getting the food leftover bag left inside, the bear couldn't manage to get out and ripped apart the sedan's interior.

A photo shows the trapped bear looking frantic in the car Monday in Castle Pines. It looks almost as if it wants to drive away, albeit from the passenger's seat. Wildlife officers eventually freed the bear.

Bears are common in the area, drawn to berries that are plentiful after a wet year. However, bears need to eat 20,000 calories a day — the equivalent of 38 hamburgers — as they prepare for hibernation.

Hockey is now every bit a girls' game, too, all the way across Canada

KRISTEN LIPSCOMBE

When Joanne Hughes was growing up in Fredericton, N.B., playing hockey wasn't an option.

She played plenty of sports, and "all the girls figure-skated," but there weren't any female hockey teams.

Now you might run into Hughes in any given rink across the country or around the world, always with a friendly smile on her face, whether she's watching a minor hockey game alongside parents or watching Canada's National Women's Team in action.

The female council chair for Hockey Canada's board of directors, who now lives in Cole Harbour, N.S., will be out and about at arenas over the next few days for World Girls' Hockey Weekend, which takes place Oct. 10-12 in partnership with the International Ice Hockey Federation. "We will have 15,000 players doing events all the way across the country, 6,000 in Ontario alone," Hughes said of the fourth annual event, meant to get more girls and women involved in a historically male-dominated sport, whether as players, fans, or like Hughes, as volunteers.

Activities include free Esso Fun Days to give females new to the game a chance to try it out, skills sessions for more experienced players, coaching and officiating clinics, as well as the second annual Long Game on Saturday, with the puck drop at 9:30 a.m. in Stephenville, N.L., and the final faceoff at 7 p.m. in Whitehorse, Yukon. More than 2,000 female players on 98 different teams will play in five continuous games at the atom, peewee, bantam, midget and senior levels. Over the past decade, female registration has climbed from 60,000 to 86,612 last season.

Off-duty cop fires 17 rounds and kills black St. Louis teen

Truth in the middle?
Police chief says 'aggressive' teen shot first; friends and family say the man, 18, was not armed, despite contrary evidence

An off-duty cop fatally shot an 18-year-old man who opened fire during a chase in south St. Louis, sparking loud protests in the area, police said Thursday.

St. Louis Police Chief Col. Sam Dotson said the 32-year-old officer was patrolling the neighbourhood for a private security company late Wednesday when the shooting happened.

The officer said three men in the street ran away when they spotted him, Dotson told reporters at a news conference early Thursday. The way that one of the men ran — grabbing at his waistband, slightly lopsided — indicated that he was carrying a weapon, so the officer chased him, Dotson said.

The man approached the officer in an aggressive way, an altercation ensued and the man fired at the officer, the police chief said. The officer returned fire and killed him.

Ballistic evidence recovered from the scene indicates that the man fired three rounds at the officer before his weapon jammed, Dotson said, adding that the gun was also recovered.

The officer fired 17 shots, Dotson said. He said he didn't know how many of those shots hit the suspect or why the officer fired that many shots. The officer was not injured.

"An investigation will decide if the officer's behaviour was appropriate," he said.

People who described themselves as relatives of the dead man told the St. Louis Post Dispatch that he was not armed.

Dotson described the officer as a six-year veteran of the St. Louis Police Department, and said the man who was killed was 18 years old and black.

Neither man was named.

Hours after the shooting, a crowd gathered at the scene near the Missouri Botanical Garden. Some shouted "Hands up, don't shoot" in reference to the fatal shooting in August of an unarmed black man, Michael Brown, by a white police officer in nearby Ferguson. That shooting led to weeks of sometimes violent unrest in the St. Louis suburb. Officer Darren Wilson has not been charged.

Dotson said police "showed great restraint" Wednesday night as the gathered crowd shouted obscenities at them.

No demonstrators were arrested and by 1 a.m. most had dispersed. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After mix-up, gay couples can get married in Vegas

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Anthony Kennedy mistakenly blocked the start of same-sex marriage in Nevada, confusing state officials and disappointing couples hoping to be wed.

Court spokeswoman Kathy Arberg confirmed the mix-up Thursday, saying Kennedy's order was an error he corrected with a second order hours later. By that time, Nevada officials decided to hold off on issuing marriage licences to same-sex couples until the situation was settled.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco declared bans on same-sex marriage in Idaho and Nevada illegal on Tuesday, joining a rapidly growing number of states allowing gay marriages.

Idaho quickly asked the Supreme Court for a delay, while Nevada planned to allow same-sex weddings to proceed. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Legalize it, says CAMH. Feds say, not in the plans

Pot debate. Liberals, NDP applaud position from Canada's largest mental health research centre; Feds say they'll 'increase enforcement'

The Harper government's resolve to enforce laws against marijuana is unshaken by a call to legalize pot from the country's largest mental health and addiction treatment centre.

Justice Minister Peter MacKay said Thursday the Conservative government has no intention of heeding the call of the Centre for Addiction and Mental Health.

Indeed, the government remains committed to going in the opposite direction, said MacKay: finding ways to actually increase enforcement of marijuana laws, including potentially making it a ticketing offence to possess small quantities of dope.

But Liberal Leader Justin Trudeau, who has been championing legalization for more than a year, said CAMH's endorsement of the idea shows he's on the right track while the Tories are ideologically bound to a war on drugs that has proven a total failure.

NDP health critic Libby Davies, whose party supports decriminalization of marijuana, said the Conservatives are becoming increasingly isolated on the issue as more and more public health groups refuse to back their tough-on-pot message.

In a policy statement released Thursday, CAMH said cannabis should be legalized and strictly regulated, sold through a government-controlled monopoly with limited availability and an age limit. The centre concluded that the current legal prohibition on pot has failed to prevent use or reduce the harm it can cause.

That pretty much echoes the arguments that have been made by Trudeau, who has been pilloried by Conservatives for allegedly wanting to make pot more easily available to children.

"Yes, it's nice to see a world-class organization like CAMH come out and agree with (us) and demonstrate that we're on the right track," Trudeau said in an interview.

By contrast, he said CAMH's position shows the Harper government is "trapped in policies based on ideology rather than policies based on evidence and that is harmful to Canadians and to Canada." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Saskatoon

The people want to name that bridge — for $20

Some Saskatoon residents set up their own contest to name a new bridge after a city report said it would need $30,000 to do it.

The group behind the OurYXE podcast launched the site www.namethatbridge.ca, where Saskatoon residents can submit ideas for the Circle Drive South bridge.

The group said in a release Wednesday that it took 10 minutes and $20 to launch the website.

Submissions will be accepted during the nomination phase of the project.

Residents will then be able to vote for their favourite nominations.

Final results will be forwarded to the city and city council.

The group said it's looking forward to reviewing ideas from the public and encourage everyone to submit a name.

Not guilty. Mountie who watched female inmates have sex in jail acquitted

A Mountie who watched two female inmates have sex in a jail cell in Kamloops, B.C., has been found not guilty of breach of trust by a public officer, but it will likely be months before he learns if he can return to work.

Cpl. Rick Brown was the watch commander on duty in August 2010 when he and other RCMP officers and at least one jail guard viewed the women's sex acts on a closed-circuit monitor.

The Crown argued at trial that Brown should have intervened, but seemed to consider the entire situation entertaining and invited others to watch.

Brown's lawyer told the trial there were no guidelines in place at the time governing what should be done in such situations.

B.C. Supreme Court Justice Selwyn Romilly ruled Thursday that Brown was not out of line in watching the women have sex and prisoners should not expect privacy while behind bars.

Romilly called the case "one of the most bizarre" he'd seen as a judge and was skeptical about whether it should have proceeded even before the trial began last month.

Outside court, defence lawyer Glen Orris said he expected the not-guilty verdict.

"Ever since I've had this file, I've strongly believed there wasn't an offence here," Orris said. "This matter should not have been dealt with criminally."

Orris said Brown plans to go back to work with the RCMP, having spent more than four years on paid administrative leave pending the outcome of his trial.

"He's an extremely good police officer," said Orris. "I like to think this hasn't done anything to his career. We'll have to wait and see what the RCMP does. I hope what they do is welcome him back to work."

Brown said he's still digesting the decision.

"I'll probably just take the weekend to unwind," he said. "It's been a long time — four years."

Harassment in Winnipeg creeps out Inuk singer

A prize-winning throat singer says she was sexually harassed and called “a sexy little Indian” while in the Manitoba capital recently.

Tanya Tagaq was in the city performing with the Royal Winnipeg Ballet in Going Home Star — Truth and Reconciliation, a production about the legacy of Indian residential schools.

Tagaq said on her Twitter account that she was walking to lunch when a man started following.

“I was in Winnipeg for the ballet, walking to lunch, when a man started following me calling me a ‘sexy little Indian,’” Tagaq said on her Twitter account, adding that he crudely propositioned her. “It’s disgusting. I’m sick of it.”

Using the hashtag MMIW for missing and murdered indigenous women, Tagaq said the harassment was “creepy and scary.”

“It happens when we are alone,” she wrote. “In the day or night.”

Tagaq’s record label, Six Shooter Records, said the Inuk singer wasn’t available to comment Thursday.

The encounter resonates in Winnipeg where many are still upset and angry over the killing of 15-year-old Tina Fontaine, whose body was pulled from the Red River in August. Her death, which has been ruled a homicide, sparked renewed calls for a national inquiry into almost 1,200 missing and murdered aboriginal women.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper has dismissed the calls and has said Fontaine’s death was a crime and not a sociological phenomenon.

Tagaq has talked openly about the fear among aboriginal women and that her daughters are four times more likely to be murdered than a non-aboriginal woman.

The Inuk singer recently won the Polaris Music Prize after a performance that featured the names of some of Canada’s 1,200 missing and murdered aboriginal women. The award is given annually to the best full-length Canadian album based on artistic merit.

She later lamented her statement was overshadowed by her speech in which she took aim at animal welfare group PETA for opposing the Inuit seal hunt.

“I had a scrolling screen of 1,200 missing and murdered indigenous women at the Polaris gala, but people are losing their minds over seals,” she tweeted last month following the award ceremony.

Her most recent tweets about being harassed in Winnipeg have prompted an outpouring of anger, sympathy and support.

“Good for you for posting about this — people need to wake and treat these incidents seriously,” tweeted Julie Lamoureux. “I’m sorry this happened to you.”

Magnotta trial. Autopsy was difficult to perform, says forensic pathologist

The jury in Luka Rocco Magnotta’s first-degree murder trial has begun hearing the testimony of the forensic pathologist who performed the autopsy on the remains of Chinese student Jun Lin.

Yann Daze says the task was difficult given the body was dismembered and the autopsy had to be conducted over five non-consecutive days.

Daze testified that police initially found most of the body in advanced decomposition in the trash behind Magnotta’s Montreal apartment building but that the head, feet and hands were missing.

The pathologist also examined tools found in the trash believed to have been used in the slaying, including a knife, a screwdriver, a hammer, a small electric saw and scissors.

The 32-year-old Magnotta has pleaded not guilty to five charges in Lin’s slaying in late May 2012, as well as publishing a so-called murder video online.

Daze says he didn’t view the video because he knew it was connected to the case and he didn’t want to taint his own findings.

He testified Thursday he didn’t have any interest in watching the video in any case.

“Frankly, I see enough disgusting things in my line of work. I didn’t need to see any more,” he told the jury.

Daze explained that conducting an autopsy over five separate days was difficult because pathologists usually do them over consecutive days and know what they are looking for from the start.

When he began the task on June 1, 2012, Daze said he had the majority of the body. Police had found a torso, cut at the neck, shoulders and thighs in a suitcase, as well as arms and legs in the trash.

Daze said the torso was facing upward and was covered in maggots.

He said he also found a piece of paper underneath the torso but fluids coming from the sectioned body part made the note illegible.

The jury has heard previously that Lin’s hands and feet would turn up in Ottawa and Vancouver while the head was recovered a month later at a Montreal park.

Marines arrive in Africa's hot zone

SOS. The world is not responding fast enough to the Ebola crisis says Sierra Leone's president; children are orphaned

An international threat

"We have to work now so this is not the next AIDS."

Tom Frieden, director of the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Frieden said he was reminded of the start of the AIDS epidemic.

Six U.S. military planes arrived Thursday at the epicentre of the Ebola crisis, carrying more aid and American Marines into Liberia, the country hardest hit by the deadly disease that has devastated West Africa and stirred anxiety across a fearful world.

At a World Bank meeting in Washington, the presidents of several West African countries struggling with Ebola pleaded for help, with one calling the epidemic "a tragedy unforeseen in modern times."

"Our people are dying," Sierra Leone President Ernest Bai Koroma lamented

by videoconference at a bank meeting in Washington.

He said the world is not responding fast enough as children are orphaned and infected doctors and nurses are lost.

The outbreak has killed more than 3,800 people, according to the latest World Health Organization figures. The vast majority of those deaths have been in Guinea, Liberia and Sierra Leone.

The U.S. military is working to build medical centres in Liberia and may send up to 4,000 soldiers to help with the Ebola crisis. Medical workers and beds for patients are lacking. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Canadians will pay $4.5B more than necessary in EI premiums, PBO claims

Ottawa's surplus plans.

Budget watchdog also says that reducing EI premiums for small businesses will have negative consequences

The federal government's handling of employment insurance will reduce job creation by 9,000 jobs over the next two years and compel Canadians to pay $4.5 billion more in EI premiums than needed, the parliamentary budget officer (PBO) says.

In an analysis of Finance Minister Joe Oliver's recent decision to freeze EI premiums at a rate higher than needed for the EI account to break even, the PBO says the move will contribute significant extra revenues to Ottawa's plan to run budget surpluses in the next few years.

Finance Minister Joe Oliver
ADRIAN WYLD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

After years of budget deficits, Oliver will be in a position to record budget surpluses starting next year. Instead of using extra EI revenues to balance the federal government's books, Ottawa could use the funds to make EI payments available to a higher proportion of jobless Canadians, the PBO says.

Because of the increase in part-time jobs that don't qualify for EI and an increase in the number of long-term unemployed, only 38 per cent of unemployed workers are receiving EI payments, the report notes.

The study also takes aim at Oliver's decision to reduce EI premiums for small businesses, which will cost Ottawa $550 million over two years.

The PBO estimates this move will add only 800 net new jobs in the economy between now and 2016, which means the jobs are being created at an average cost of $550,000 per person-year. This is a sharp contrast to Oliver's prediction of the impact of the EI cuts for small business. He cited a report saying the move would produce thousands of new jobs during the next few years.

The PBO said the impact on job creation or job losses of current federal EI policies will even out over the long term because of the government's commitment to adjust EI premium rates after 2016 so that the EI fund will operate on a break-even basis.

WikiWash targets transparency in Wikipedia entries

Tracking changes. Metro and industry partners came up with project to shine light on wiki edits, enhance journalism

JESSICA SMITH CROSS
Metro in Toronto

Call it the spin cycle: powerful people and groups using Wikipedia for PR, entering the most flattering information and hiding controversies, despite the best efforts of the site's army of editors.

One part of the solution is a new tool called WikiWash, and it went live on Thursday evening. Metro News, The Working Group (TWG), the Center for Investigative Reporting (CIR) and Google launched WikiWash with a party at TWG's headquarters in Toronto.

The idea was spawned by a group of journalists from Metro News at the TechRaking Toronto conference hosted by CIR, The Canadian Press and Google Canada in March.

The idea won the conference's competition in which participants were asked to invent technical solutions to data-journalism problems. Part of the solution to the spin cycle, the winning team reasoned, is improving transparency.

TWG, a web and mobile-app developer, created WikiWash from Metro's idea, and the result is a free tool available at wikiwash.metronews.ca. Visit a Wikipedia page, and WikiWash shows you the page's most recent edits, and a downloadable database shows who has made edits and when. Users can also see real-time edits.

Chris Eben, managing partner at TWG, said WikiWash and tools like it are meaningful for journalism.

"The future of news depends on organizations having the skills to develop new tools and technologies that support journalists in their pursuit of stories," he said.

Joaquin Alvarado, CIR's CEO, agreed: "Journalism has more to gain from technological innovation and deep community engagement than any other sector in the media," he said. "WikiWash captures the essence of designing around a need not yet being met, as well as the opportunity to engage the local community in improving journalism."

Ebola vaccine to be shipped from Canada

Canada's gift.
800 doses of an experimental vaccine are almost ready to be shipped to Africa

The World Health Organization says it is finalizing the paperwork to take possession of 800 or so vials of an experimental Ebola vaccine donated by the Canadian government.

A WHO official says the legal agreement required for the global health agency to accept the vaccine is almost done and the vaccine should be shipped next week.

Dr. Marie-Paule Kieny says researchers who will conduct clinical trials of the vaccine in Europe and Africa should be submitting their proposals to their regulatory agencies next week, which means they will soon need the vaccine.

These Phase 1 trials will determine if the vaccine is safe to give to people and how much vaccine is needed for each person.

Canada has donated between 800 and 1,000 vials of vaccine to the WHO.

Kieny says that depending on what the studies show, the vials may contain as many as 100 doses apiece, or enough to protect 50 people apiece. The vaccine will be given in two doses. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Multicultural schools in Israel focus on building a better future for all

Initiative. Hand in Hand co-founder Lee Gordon is working to promote peace through diversity in the classroom

For Metro Canada

With five schools and 1,200 students across Israel, educational organization Hand in Hand has one ambition — to foster peaceful multiculturalism in Israeli society, starting with kids in kindergarten.

“The goal of Hand in Hand is to create a viable model for shared living in Israeli society,” says Lee Gordon, executive director for the American Friends of Hand in Hand. He was in Toronto at the beginning of October to drum up funding for the organization.

“Twenty per cent of Israeli citizens are also Palestinian Arabs,” says Gordon. “There’s a big divide between Jews and Arabs inside of Israel. It’s a segregated society — partly because of the conflict, partly because of language, and partly be-

Influencing young minds

“Fear, anger and violence are undermining shared living. But this is not the case at Hand in Hand. Our preschools, summer programs and community activity continue unabated in our five schools and communities. As we begin the 2014-15 school year, and as our network of bilingual schools and communities expands, so does our message to Israeli society: There is another way.”

Hand In Hand, handinhandk12.org

cause there is an Arab public school system and a Jewish public school system.”

Gordon, whose background is in social work and educational leadership, lived and worked in Israel for more than 20 years. He saw that the segregated way of life — specifically, the segregated school system — was a serious impediment to building a trusting, collaborative society in Israel. That’s what inspired him to co-found Hand in Hand with an Arab colleague, Amin Khalaf, in 1997.

“We decided one way we could really make an impact would be to create a new model of schooling, in which Jewish and Arab children go to school together on a daily basis, year after year,” he says. “If you disagree and don’t have any common ground, it’s hard to solve conflict. If you disagree but have the common ground of attending school together, becoming friends, writing the same exams, you have a human bond.” That, he says, makes resolving conflict easier.

The concept was sound, but actually making it happen took months of research and planning. The first schools didn’t open until the fall of 1998.

“We started with 50 children in two locations,” he says, “a kindergarten class in Jerusalem and a first-grade class in Northern Israel.”

Each class is split down the middle: half of the students are Jewish Israeli, the other half, Arab Israeli. There are two teachers, and the instructional time is also split. Students learn half of their lessons in Hebrew and half in Arabic. Since 1998, the organization has grown significantly, with 1,200 students now spread among five schools across Israel. The first class graduated from high school in 2011.

At Hand in Hand schools, the learning opportunities aren’t restricted to students in classrooms. In an effort to encourage the atmosphere of collaboration, parents are encouraged to attend school programs and cultural celebrations.

It’s all part of the larger goal, says Gordon.

“We want to be a social phenomenon in Israel,” he says.

“You can have a diplomatic solution, but unless you have a grassroots, people-to-people partnership as the foundation, peace won’t stand. We’re part of that grassroots effort.”

Pepsi, Coke sales fizzle out after new tax in Mexico

Going flat? Top pop companies fighting similar proposed taxes in San Fran, Berkeley

No wonder Coke and Pepsi are spending millions of dollars to fight proposed taxes on sugary drinks in California.

PepsiCo reported a higher quarterly profit Thursday as global sales rose, but one weak spot was Mexico. The company said snack sales volume declined by three per cent, hurt by a new tax on junk foods.

Recent declines suffered by Pepsi and Coke in Mexico underscore why the beverage industry is fighting tax proposals on sugary drinks in San Francisco and nearby Berkeley, Calif.

PepsiCo — which makes Frito-Lay chips, Gatorade and Tropicana — reported similar declines in its snack business for the first half of the year, starting when the tax went into effect.

Coca-Cola, which reports its third quarter results Oct. 21, has also reported beverage volume declines in Mexico for the first half of the year, citing a similar tax on drinks. Mexico has the world's highest per capita consumption of Coca-Cola drinks.

Hugh Johnston, chief financial officer for PepsiCo, said in a phone interview that declines in Mexico were in line with what the company expected. To mitigate the impact of the tax, he said

PepsiCo plans to target different package sizes for different outlets. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DR. DEATH, NICKELBACK & TOMMY THE CHIMP

On the eve of the Thanksgiving long weekend, we're here to give thanks for the Metro List, your guide to the newsiest news of the week.

1 Tried, tested and true. Sounds better than "ineffective and out of date." We're talking about the six CF18s that Ottawa is sending to the Middle East to help stamp out the latest terrorist threat. The first CF18 Hornet was delivered in 1982, so this is the defence equivalent of sending a 32-year-old Oldsmobile to war. One last assignment on the way to the recycling depot.

2 The last trip to the Vet. A poll released this week shows that 84 per cent of Canadians favour physician-assisted suicide, as an alternative to a slow, painful "natural" date with Dr. Death. It sounds good on paper, but this is Canada, where you have to wait up to two years to have a hip replaced. The chances of expiring before you get an appointment are too real.

THE METRO LIST

3 Mea culpa. Speaking of real, Pope Francis is encouraging his cardinals and theologians to get real and figure out what to do about the millions of Catholics who ignore the Church's rules on birth control, sex outside of marriage, divorce, and all that stuff you go to confession for. They can't just mass-excommunicate them, or there would be no one left in the pews on Sundays.

4 The good old hockey game, and then some. The puck dropped on the NHL regular season this week and millions of fans said goodbye to their families and descended into the "media room," not scheduled to emerge until June. This year, Rogers brings the full weight of its media empire to the table, with plans to broadcast 553 regular season games plus all the playoffs. We're talking all hockey, all the time. Imagine what happens if more than one Canadian team makes the playoffs; imagine a Canadian team competing in the Stanley Cup final; imagine two Canadian teams... it's easy if you try.

5 Will it work on Justin Bieber, too? Some guy in London, England, is trying to put together a crowd-funding campaign to keep Nickelback away from the UK capital. By going to #Don'tnickelback and pledging between $1 and $50, fans of actual music can keep London Nickelback-free. $50, for example, will get the guy to send Chad Kroeger an MP3 of his own music. "This way, the band will hear their own music, and likely retire immediately, thereby ensuring the success of our campaign," the website reads. Undeterred, Nickelback releases its eighth studio album in November.

6 Thanks, but no thanks. In an Albany, N.Y., trailer park, Tommy the chimp, a 26-year-old veteran of the entertainment biz, watches TV and waits to find out of a court will grant him human rights. Ultimately, that will give him the right to go live with other chimps in a Florida wildlife sanctuary. While Tommy might prefer Florida to an upstate New York winter, does he have to change species to do it?

If you've never heard of a Romo, picture a small remote control tank for an iPhone — it isn't nearly as fun as it sounds. It seems that Japanese hacker Ken Kawamoto feels the same way about the Romo, because he felt the need to improve upon the whole thing by rigging up a camera, a projector and a couple of slick algorithms to recreate a Mario Kart-style racing game that turns any floor into a dynamic track. Amazing. (Kawamoto Ken/YouTube)

The Judge is a guilty pleasure

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Scan this photo using your Metro News app to see a clip of Robert Downey Jr. swagger around as a criminal defence lawyer in The Judge. CONTRIBUTED

Synopsis

Robert Downey Jr. is Hank Palmer, a hotshot defence lawyer who's been estranged from his father Judge Joseph Palmer (Robert Duvall) for years but is forced to see him when his mother passes away. Returning to his hometown of Carlinville, Ind., for the funeral, Hank must confront the life he left behind — ex-girlfriend Samantha (Vera Farmiga), brothers Glen (Vincent D'Onofrio) and Dale (Jeremy Strong) and his cold-fish father. The quick in-and-out trip is extended, however, when the judge is accused of murder and Hank becomes his lawyer.

- Richard: ●●●●●
- Mark: ●●●●●

Old-fashioned drama.

Robert Downey Jr. heads up an impressive cast that delivers a solid, if not too original, film

Richard: Mark, The Judge feels like Oscar bait. It's a long movie with a wide story arc that gives its leads ample opportunity to strut their stuff. Downey hands in a solid, if somewhat familiar, performance while Duvall plays elder statesman, resurrecting the alpha male feel of The Great Santini. Both are used to good effect and the supporting cast keeps things humming along despite a story that pushes credulity to the limit. What's your verdict? Were you won over by the performances despite plot holes so big not even Iron Man could fill them?

Mark: Richard, The Judge is a sprawling, square, old-fashioned movie and I loved it in spite of itself. It's a pleasure to watch Downey act without a fifth of a billion bucks in CGI helping him out. The movie reminds us why we fell in love with him so long ago. His perfect wiseass line readings and adolescent smirk hide the softie underneath, and it's great to watch the transition slowly unfold. As for Duvall, how can you go wrong? He's not just an actor now, he's everyone's granddad. The acting in the movie is pretty flawless, and I'm including Vincent D'Onofrio and Vera Farmiga here as well.

RC: The acting is very good. It's the story, or should I say stories, that bogged me down. It's the hardest working movie in show business. It's a film that wants to check all the boxes. It's a family drama! No! It's a romance! Nope! It's a courtroom thriller! It's all those things, and, for me, less because it spreads the focus too thin by trying just a little too hard. Downey and Co. float above it all, however, touching down now and again to introduce a new plot twist and deliver the occasional touching moment.

MB: You're right; it's all those things. And one more: It's a John Mellencamp song. You see, he was born in a small town ... Richard, let's not forget the cliché of the big city slicker who finds out his roots are where his heart belongs. In spite of that, in spite of everything you so correctly enumerate, I still loved the movie. And although I had a pretty good idea how the thriller part was going to turn out, I was engaged to see how it would get there.

RC: Most of the silly stuff that bothered me comes in the form of clues Hank pieces together while forming the judge's defence and the trial itself. There will be no spoilers here, but suffice it to say the whole thing hinges on a bit of information so implausible that it gives new meaning to the term suspension of disbelief. Trouble is, it didn't have to be that way. There were any number of ways to establish the point in question (OK, here's a mild spoiler alert: It involves chemotherapy and a cottage) without trying so hard, but that's not the kind of film this is.

MB: But it is the kind of movie where the prosecuting attorney (Billy Bob Thornton) is given a Snidely Whiplash moustache just to make sure we all know he's the bad guy. Doesn't matter. Still loved the movie.

Bella Thorne set to take over the world

Overachiever. Actress can't vote, but she's already in big films, a published author and has an album

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Bella Thorne, who turns 17 this week, is about to make you feel like an underachiever. As an actress she's been in a number of TV shows and follows up Blend-ed earlier this year with Alexander and the Terrible, Horrible, No Good, Very Bad Day, playing the less-than-understanding girlfriend of Alexander's older brother. She also released her first album, Call It Whatever, earlier this year, and has numerous endorsement deals. Oh, and she wrote a novel that's coming out next month. Here's a few things you should know about her.

She's a hugger

When you meet Thorne, she invariably greets you with a big hug. "It catches people off guard a lot, more than you might think. A lot of people aren't huggers, which is pretty weird," Thorne tells Metro. "A lot of people, when you hug them, sometimes they get weirded out. And I'm like, 'Look, I don't got a thing about bacteria, I'm not weird at all like that. I have no problem with that kind of stuff.' Actually, my hug is so strong when I stand up, I grab people by the back of their neck and I pull them in really hard for some reason. Like I get so excited that my energy just bounces off the wall. Then they trip or I fall over or step on their toes. Then it just gets awkward."

She doesn't think her Alexander character is unlikable

"She's not unlikable — you love to hate her," Thorne says. "The thing about Celia is she's not mean evil, where you just hate her and you don't want her to be in the film. She's mean in the sense that she's a perfectionist, and perfectionists, when things aren't perfect, what do they do? They get mad and they try to fix it, and they get mad when it's not fixed. And if somebody else says that they're going to fix it and they don't, then they get more mad, I'm pretty sure. That's Celia."

She's about to be a published author

Her debut novel, first in a trilogy, hits bookstores in early November. "Autumn Falls" is based around a girl named Autumn Falls who moves to Miami when her father dies, and he leaves her a journal to write in," Thorne explains. "At first she's like, 'Wow, Dad, thanks. Die on me and leave me a journal — that's going to help me.' But what she doesn't realize is that when she writes in the journal, things come to life. But since she's dyslexic, they come to life a little bit wonky and mostly backfiring on her. She's not famous, she's not glamorous, she's not about the hair, the makeup and the heels. She's a real girl. In the book, she makes a lot of mistakes. She's a real human being, and that's what I think a lot of people will like about her."

She has the best method for shutting down predictable questions

Given the content of Alexander and the Terrible, Horrible, No Good, Very Bad Day, it's understandable that most reporters might lead with a question about Thorne's own worst day. "You want to hear my answer? The day my father died," she says flatly. "Any time somebody asks me, which is every interview, that's what I say. I think they're expecting a funny response ... but I'm pretty honest."

The film that Renner just 'had to make'

Kill the Messenger. Actor brings to life true story of journalist who alleged a link between the CIA and crack cocaine in L.A.

MATT PRIGGE
Metro World News in New York

Jeremy Renner didn't know why Kill the Messenger had to be a movie until he was half-way through it. It tells of Gary Webb, a journalist at the tiny San Jose Mercury News who broke a story alleging a link between the CIA and the sudden appearance of crack cocaine in parts of Los Angeles. What finally got Renner on board was the aftermath, when Webb was hounded for his piece to the point where his career was destroyed. In 2004 Webb was found dead of an apparent suicide. "It was a movie I wanted to do," Renner recalls. "Then it was a movie I had to do."

Still, he found his take on the film evolving as production of the film, his first as a producer, went on. "Before it was about Gary Webb and his plight. I love the David and Goliath story, the everyman in extraordinary circumstances," he says. "Ultimately it became a commentary on where we are today. I wouldn't have known two years ago when we were doing this that whistle-blowing would be such a popular topic right now."

Jeremy Renner stars in Kill the Messenger, which opens today. CONTRIBUTED

But it was more than that. It also touched on newspapers. "Good journalism is not popular. People don't care about good writing and good investigative reporting. They care about nude celebrity leaked photos. And that's sad," he says. "You can't blame the media, even though I do. They do exacerbate the fire that's already started. But it's people who want to see this stuff."

Playing a journalist meant he had to learn about it. "That was a new thing for me to think about, being on that side of it, rather than having hatred towards it," he says. Indeed, Renner has been hounded by a number of rumours about his personal life, which he tirelessly insists are erroneous. He consulted with Kill the Messenger screenwriter Peter Landesman and his The Hurt Locker author Mark Boal, both former investigative reporters. But he was also concerned with how journalism would look onscreen.

"No one wants to see Gary Webb researching. That's just not fun," Renner explains. "So we had him talk about his research with his editor."

Acting can be a form of journalism, especially if you're playing a real person. He says he didn't meet with Webb's family until he had done his own research into Webb as a person.

"He was tenacious and self-righteous and stubborn. Those are attributes but they're also flaws," he says. "That's what I love about Gary Webb: He's unapologetically flawed, and that's what makes him heroic. He accepted all those things about himself."

Without that drive, Renner says, Webb might never have pushed to get these allegations out in the open. Kill the Messenger exists chiefly because Renner's name is familiar to the globe's moviegoers; in fact, he read the script while shooting Marvel's The Avengers.

Renner has that series, plus Mission: Impossible and the Bourne series (though Matt Damon has since reclaimed his role in the franchise).

"Doing Avengers movies lets me do Kill the Messenger," he explains. "We do those, then we get to make this movie that no one seemingly wants to make, because it's not easy. No one's throwing money at Kill the Messenger."

It's easy to forget — in part because the movie was forgotten almost as soon as it was released — but Renner got his start in no less than 1995's National Lampoon's Senior Trip, in which he played one of the misbehaving, slacker teens.

"That was my first job ever as an actor on film," he says. "I don't like to bash something that meant so much to me at the time. It's a crap movie, but it was a huge thing for me. It gave me a lot of confidence."

It also introduced him to costar Tommy Chong. Asked what he's like, he says, "Pretty much what you'd think. I remember some guitar streaming from his trailer, as well as some smoke." It wasn't, he recalls, herbal.

Kingpin. Michael K. Williams talks about researching drug lord role

Michael K. Williams made his name with The Wire's Omar Little, the charismatic gangster who made drug lords' lives hell. Since then, he's made sure to keep doing films that touch on important subjects, taking roles in films as diverse as 12 Years a Slave and The Purge: Anarchy, in which he played a rebel leader seeking to help the targeted downtrodden. He does the same in the docudrama Kill the Messenger, playing real-life drug kingpin Ricky Ross, who in the 1990s was instrumental in helping journalist Gary Webb (Jeremy Renner) shed light on alleged CIA involvement in shipping crack cocaine into low-income African American neighbourhoods.

Had you ever heard this story before you got the script?

Never. I was really outraged at the fact that I was that dumb. My neighbourhood was going through its own scandal. My neighbourhood was being bombarded with crack cocaine at the same time. I didn't have time to worry about what was going on in L.A. And let's face it: We don't grow cocoa leaves in South Central L.A. or East Flatbush, Brooklyn. It's coming from somewhere.

How did you prepare?

I got in contact with Rick. I consider him a friend today. He gave me a ton of homework to do. It becomes apparent in the film he's more of a pawn in the situation. He was a fall guy — allegedly.

He comes across as not just another evil drug lord but as sympathetic.

That was very important that came across (that way). (Director Michael Cuesta) supported me in wanting to make sure his voice was heard accurately. (Ross) didn't wake up one day and say, "I'm going to become the best drug dealer in the world." He fell into it due to a lack of opportunities. I'm not condoning his choices. But his options were next to none. This is a man who was allowed to float through the school system uneducated. He aspired to be a tennis player. Where were the educators nurturing this man? Obviously he's not stupid. To reach that level of infamy in the drug world, you have to be good at numbers. You have to be good at math to handle that level of flow. No one saw that potential in him? Sad.

Netflix challenger

Amazon renews Transparent

Amazon has ordered a second season of its original series Transparent, as the online retail giant looks to mount a serious challenge to streaming pioneer Netflix.
Transparent is a dark comedy about a man (played by Jeffrey Tambor) who has transitioned to become a woman and is working out the thorny details of telling his family.

The series — which has generated serious industry buzz — is the creation of Jill Soloway, a writer on cult series Six Feet Under. The first season was released on Sept. 26.

Amazon has recently bolstered its streaming video offerings. But so far, its own original content has not reached the level achieved by Netflix. AFF

Crossover star

Scarlett Johansson comes to TV

The latest Hollywood star to make the crossover from film to TV is Scarlett Johansson.

According to Deadline, the actress will co-executive produce and star in a limited series adapted from the Edith Wharton novel The Custom of the Country. Johansson will play the heroine, who is willing to risk everything to climb the ladder of New York's high society. Aimed at cable networks, the eight-episode program is penned by screenwriter Christopher Hampton (Dangerous Liaisons, Atonement, Adore). AFF

The Word

Bustin' ghosts with SNL stars, Parks & Rec or Feig faves?*NED EHRBAR
Metro in Hollywood

It's really happening. Bridesmaids director Paul Feig confirmed on Twitter that he'll be directing a new Ghostbusters film with a female cast, co-written by Parks and Recreation scribe Katie Dippold.

Ever since the idea of an all-female Ghostbusters team was first floated earlier this summer, speculation has run rampant about who might fill out the roster.

And who am I to stop something from running rampant?

Here are some ideas I think would be awesome.

The Feig all-stars: Melissa McCarthy, Kristen Wiig, Sandra Bullock and Rose Byrne.

McCarthy and Wiig seem like obvious choices

— so obvious, in fact, that Bill Murray already name-checked them as what he'd like to see, along with Linda Cardellini and Emma Stone. (Hey, that's not a bad lineup either.)

But I'd round it out with McCarthy's Heat co-star, Bullock, and the Bridesmaids secret weapon, Byrne, who stole the show in Neighbors earlier this year.

The Parks & Rec Crew: Amy Poehler, Rashida Jones, Aubrey Plaza and Retta.

Given that Dippold is co-writing, it makes sense to look to Parks and Recreation for women to strap on the proton packs, and that show has a deep bench of female talent. We already know these four can play awkward co-workers, so why not throw some supernatural elements at them?

The SNL lineup: Kate McKinnon, Aidy Bryant, Vanessa Bayer and Cecily Strong.

These additions to the Saturday Night Live cast have been some of the strongest in years, so why not reward them with a big-screen blockbuster?

If nothing else, I will be expecting some "famous women audition for Ghostbusters III" impressions from these four sometime this season.

The TV grab-bag: Mindy Kaling, Casey Wilson, Teyonah Parris and Sarah Silverman.

Now I'm just playing favourites. What you want in a Ghostbusters team is a mix of strong, distinct personalities who won't drown each other out, and that's what these four have.

Kaling and Wilson are irresistible, and Silverman is always a commanding presence.

And Mad Men co-star Teyonah Parris shows some very impressive comic chops in the upcoming Dear White People and should be on your radar.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Don't ask Hilary Duff about childhood sweetie who still professes his love

Hilary Duff isn't such a fan of how Aaron Carter — whom she dated briefly when they were both child stars — keeps mentioning his undying love for her on Twitter and in interviews.

And she's definitely not a fan of Andy Cohen bringing it up. "I'm going to hurt you right now," she tells Cohen when he asks about it during a Watch What Happens Live chat. "I don't know. I don't know what to say about it. It was so many years ago. I literally haven't seen him in ... so, it's uncomfortable."

For Carter's part, he's 'fessed up to be something of a creeper when it comes to Duff. "I just need to shut up now about it. I think it's time," he told WENN last month.

"She's got a kid and she's married and I'm not trying to be that dude. That's not my intention."

Alternative Thanksgiving Week. No one at your table likes turkey? Try Orange Roasted Chicken

RICARDO COOKS
Chef Ricardo
Ricardo Magazine

Although a classic Thanksgiving tradition, roasting a whole turkey can be a bit of hassle — especially if you're not expecting to feed a crowd!

A roasted chicken is a nice alternative. This one feels special and occasion-worthy with orange wedges and a hit of Triple Sec or Grand Marnier.

Add delicious roasted veggies and you're in for a memorable meal.

Chicken

1. With the rack in the middle position, preheat the oven to 375 F (190 C).

2. In roasting pan, spread parsnips, onions and sage. Season with salt and pepper. Set aside.

3. Insert the segments of one orange in the chicken's cavity. Brush the chicken with the mustard and place over the vegetables. Drizzle with the orange juice, Triple Sec and olive oil. Season with salt and pepper. Place the remaining orange wedges around the chicken.

4. Roast 2 hours or until a meat thermometer inserted into the thigh without touching the bone reads 180 F (82 C). Place the chicken and vegetables in a warm serving dish. Skim the fat from the pan drippings and keep drippings for the sauce.

Sauce

1. In a large saucepan, combine all the ingredients and add the reserved pan drippings. Bring to a boil, stirring with a whisk, and reduce by half. Press one or two cooked orange wedges into the sauce. Strain and adjust the seasoning. Serve with the chicken. FOLLOW RICARDO ON SOCIAL MEDIA AND ON RICARDOCUISINE.COM OR SUBSCRIBE TO HIS MAGAZINE'S ENGLISH EDITION, WHICH LAUNCHED THIS SEPTEMBER!

Ingredients

Chicken

- 1 lb (454 g) parsnips, peeled and cut in half lengthwise
- 2 onions, sliced
- 3 sprigs fresh sage
- 2 oranges, unpeeled, each cut into 6 wedges
- 1 large chicken, about 5 lb (2.3 kg)
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) Dijon mustard
- Juice of 1 orange
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) Triple Sec or Grand Marnier
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) olive oil
- Salt and pepper

Sauce

- 4 cups (1 litre) chicken broth
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) honey
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) Triple Sec
- 2 tsp cornstarch

Liquid Assets

Wines to give turkey the bird

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy liquidassets@eastlink.ca

Of all the meals you'll eat this year, Thanksgiving dinner is the most traditional. Or is it?

A poll of my friends found that while most will be taking the turkey and cranberry sauce route, some have given up cliché fare for a less mainstream main course.

That bodes well for this week's recipe. Ricardo flips the bird at turkey and suggests chicken glazed with an orange sauce.

It's the sauce that dictates your choice of wine. The up-front citrus influence of the orange liqueur will wreak havoc on anything too dry, too full or too oaky.

If you prefer a red, go with a light-bodied pinot noir from California or Chile. When it comes to white, think Riesling from Germany or one from a local vineyard in your province — it's grown just about everywhere in Canada.

I like Chardonnay. The Banrock Station 2013 Unwooded Chardonnay ($11.99 to $12.99) from Australia sees no barrel aging, and its bright, lime, melon and pineapple flavours will make for a happy holiday no matter what you're serving. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Side dish goes from roots up

1. With the rack in the middle position, preheat the oven to 350 F (180 C).

2. In a large ovenproof skillet, heat the butter and honey. Add the vegetables and thyme. Cook over medium-high heat for about 10 minutes, without stirring too much, to allow the vegetables to caramelize. Season with salt and pepper.

3. Place the skillet in the oven and roast for about 40 minutes or until the vegetables are tender. RICARDO

Prosecutors want Peterson's bond revoked

Minnesota Vikings star Adrian Peterson should be arrested anew after admitting during his court appearance on a child abuse charge that he had "smoked a little weed" while out on bond, Texas prosecutors said Thursday.

In a court motion, the Montgomery County District Attorney's Office said Peterson allegedly told a worker conducting his urinalysis exam during a Wednesday court appearance that he had smoked marijuana.

Peterson is currently free on a $15,000 bond after he was indicted last month on a felony charge of injury to a child for using a wooden switch to discipline his four-year-old son. Peterson has said he never intended to harm his son.

He faces up to two years in prison and a $10,000 fine if convicted.

Instinctual instigator

"It's something I always did, something my father taught me, he'd say establish yourself with a big hit, a verbal encounter, and it gets you into the game."

Nazem Kadri

Following a disappointing season-opening loss, the Maple Leafs need a spark heading into Saturday's game against the Penguins, and one way could be Nazem Kadri getting under Sidney Crosby's skin again.

"Yeah, maybe ... it depends on what Randy (coach Carlyle) wants, but he's a guy you have to watch, and if you can get under his skin, get him off his game, then you have to go after that," Kadri said Thursday.

Crosby's Penguins won 6-4 in their home-opener against Anaheim Thursday night.

The Leafs face four playoff opponents to start the season — Montreal, Pittsburgh, the Rangers, and Colorado — and would love a win against the high-powered Penguins.

Crosby took exception to Kadri when the two were matched up against each other in a game last December.

Kadri went after Crosby with a physical edge; Crosby responded with a left elbow to Kadri's head, sending him face first into the boards.

HBO's 24/7 Winter Classic caught the exchange. Leafs captain Dion Phaneuf skated over to Crosby during a break in the play and told Crosby, "You hit Nazem from behind, Sid ..."

Crosby replied that he doesn't hit anyone, and that Kadri was a "(bleeping) joke."

"That's exactly what happened," Kadri said Thursday.

"I'm an agitator ... I try to get someone off their game. He (hit me from behind) and he thought I embellished it a bit. Words were exchanged and that's pretty much what happened." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Raptors rookie needs time to learn to fly

Brazil's Bruno Caboclo isn't expected to see much playing time in his rookie season with the Raptors. GETTY IMAGES

Bruno Caboclo was walking by Will Cherry at practice on Thursday and casually reached up to block Cherry's shot.

While the Toronto Raptors rookie is a huge work in progress, the team believes his physical gifts — including a wing span among the biggest in league history — will eventually take him far.

"His corner three is huge. He's ahead of the curve," said Raptors coach Dwane Casey. "Reminds me of Rashard Lewis (who Casey coached at Seattle), and he's a better three-point shooter than Rashard at the same stage.

"His biggest issue is, one, the language, and two, the strength factor. Once he gets those down and gets a feel for the NBA game, the sky's the limit for him."

Caboclo saw his first NBA action in Toronto's 113-106 loss at Sacramento on Tuesday — hitting both of his three-pointers and grabbing a couple of rebounds in 15 minutes. He used his length to swat away an Omri Casspi shot from behind.

He could play Friday when the Raptors host Boston in the first pre-season action at the Air Canada Centre.

The 19-year-old Caboclo was the shock of the 2014 draft when the Raptors selected the unknown Brazilian with the 20th pick. But his physical gifts — things like his length — are undeniable.

Caboclo attempted to talk to reporters after practice on Thursday.

On his NBA debut, he said: "It's different, but I feel OK. It's normal, like practice, but it's different."

On his English: "I'm learning to talk to everybody, it's not comfortable. But I try."

And when asked what he plans to do with his first paycheck, he laughed and said "I don't know yet. It's so much money, I save in my account."

Davis will likely miss ALCS games

Forced to sit. Oriole slugger still has five games left on suspension for amphetamine use Suspended slugger Chris Davis won't be playing in the AL Championship Series for the Baltimore Orioles.

Davis was suspended for 25 games by Major League Baseball on Sept. 12 for testing positive for Adderall, a banned amphetamine.

Rematch. Bouchard may face Kvitova

Facing the powerful Czech Republic in the Fed Cup is a tall order for the Canadian women's tennis squad and its top player Eugenie Bouchard.

Bouchard is in for another match against the player who has become her nemesis, Petra Kvitova, if both opt to play for their respective countries when they meet Feb. 7-8 in Quebec City.

Canada will host the Czech Republic on the campus of Laval University for the Fed Cup World Group I tie, Tennis Canada announced Thursday. Currently eighth in the Fed Cup rankings, Canada defeated Slovakia in a playoff tie in April at the same 3,000-seat venue.

Bouchard is 0-3 against Kvitova, including losses in the finals at Wimbledon in June and the Wuhan Open on Sept. 27. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Horoscopes by Sally Brompton

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

What seemed such a sensible idea yesterday may now appear a little silly but don't give up on it. In there somewhere is the germ of a really good plan and it can be made to work if you refuse to be disheartened.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

You must be decisive today, especially on the work front where the right word in the right ear at the right time could open doors that have been closed for too long.

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

According to the planets you are in danger of making a simple situation more complicated than it needs to be. Relax and let your inner voice guide you.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

It's important that you are honest with yourself about the position you are in but you also need to be more optimistic. The fact is your financial situation is nowhere near as bleak as you have been painting it.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

You have been experiencing a lot of emotional ups and downs of late and need to find a balance between being concerned about personal issues and laughing at them.

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

There are occasions, and this is one of them, when your emotions must be ignored and you act on logic and reason alone. Today's cosmic picture signifies that a problem requires a practical solution.

♎ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Today and over the weekend you need to either throw yourself into a serious project or leave it alone and go off and do something fun. If you try to do both you'll get nowhere.

♏ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Take time out to ponder the decision you are about to make. Is it really what you want? If you are not completely convinced you are doing the right thing then maybe you should wait.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

The nicer you are to someone today, the more they will take liberties. The planets warn you won't get anywhere by appealing to the better side of this person's nature.

♑ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Today's Sun-Jupiter link means you may find it hard to show restraint when dealing with matters of a business nature, but that's OK. Usually you are totally in control of yourself, so go to the other extreme.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Something you've been dreaming about for weeks, months, maybe even years is about to become a reality. Not everyone will be pleased with what happens over the next 24 hours, but not everyone has as much to gain from it as you.

♓ Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

You won't escape a difficult situation by running away from it, so be brave and face up to whatever emotional challenge is in front of you.
